HALL & HUEBEL

Live Over Places of Business.

Housing conditions in Amsterdam among the wealthy are peculiar. Very frequently men of large business affairs have their residences in their office and warehouse buildings. The upper floors are elegantly fitted up, while the lower floors are occupied as offices, quarters, or the lower floors are used for residential purposes and the upper floors as warehouses. These homes front on the canal. Household furnishings, merchandise, etc., are hoisted to the upper stories by block and tackle. An ingenious mirror arrangement in the windows furnishes persons who live above the first floor a view of the street and of any one ringing the doorbell.

A Girl's Small Feet in Holland.

"But it was too funny at The Hague. There at the same time with me was a little Atlanta girl who has very tiny feet and is very pretty. I went one day with her to what they call a drug store over there and on the way back she stopped to look in a window. I heard her shout and turned to find her surrounded by a crowd of men and women. They were staring at her, particularly at her feet, and the women would press near and take hold of the bottom of her skirt and lift it and others would try to pluck the trimming from her sleeves. The crowd grew larger as we neared the hotel. Most of the people in the crowd were women on shoes, and we were told they were amazed at the size of my friend's feet."—New York Sun.

Windows.

Most women seem to think that windows are made merely to be lit with curtains that will keep out the light.

Dad.

One of the worst things about cold weather is that it gives every body a chance to show himself in an overcoat with a fur collar.

New York's Thieves.

It is estimated that there are about 11,000 professional thieves in New York city. Those who steal only when the opportunity is offered have not been estimated.

Conservation.

"I see you only have one chair in the kitchen, Mary. I must get another for you." "You needn't mind, ma'am. I have none but gentlemen callers."—Buffalo Express.

Pitiable.

"Dreadful," moaned the opera singer, who had been robbed of $1,000, "why it takes me nearly ten minutes of hard work to earn that much."

Right and Wrong.

Many a wrong seems to become right if the profit is likely to be large.

SEVEN DECISIONS OUT OF EIGHT ARE UPHELD BY COURT

Supreme Court Affirms Decision in Murdock Case Against Interurban. Monahan Awarded $8,000 Damages.

With the affirmation of the decision of the circuit court in the case of Floyd Murdock vs. the Rockford and Interurban Railway by the Supreme court, awarding the plaintiff in the circuit court who was the respondent in the supreme court, $1,220 damages, alleged to have been incurred by the railway company on the Murdock property at the corner of North Franklin and Wall streets, seven out of eight of the cases appealed from the circuit court for Rock County and on the docket of the Supreme court for the August term were affirmed.

The only decision which was reversed was that of Monahan vs. the Pullman-Moran Manufacturing Company of Hollet awarding the plaintiff and the appellant in the action $8,000 damages for injuries to his person alleged to have been made through the fault of the respondent company. In this case which was tried before Judge Grimm in the circuit last spring the jury brought in a verdict for Monahan awarding him $8,000 damages. Judge Grimm, however, saw fit to lay aside the answer of the jury to the question of contributory negligence, reversing it entirely to read that the plaintiff was guilty of the same. The jury's interpretation of the matter was sustained in the case by the Supreme court and the decision reversed.

JOHN BARRETT DIED UNEXPECTEDLY TODAY

Passed Away Late This Morning After Short Acute Illness—Brother Arrives Late at Bedside.

John Barrett, who has been making his home for a year or more at the Riverside hotel, died suddenly this morning. He complained of not feeling well this morning but was able to get up and eat his breakfast. He steadily became worse. His brother, Peter, who lives at Leyden, was called for about 10:30 o'clock but by the time he arrived he was dead.

The deceased was fifty-three years old, and has lived in Janesville for over six years. Previous to that time he was a farmer. He has been a paralytic cripple for a number of years.

Barrett is survived by four brothers: Peter and Lawrence, living at Leyden; Will, living in Edgerton; and James, in Portage. His wife died twenty-five years ago.

The remains were taken to the (Irish) undertaking establishment this afternoon. The date for the funeral has not yet been set, but it will be held from St. Mary's Roman Catholic church.

PICK UP A RUNAWAY YOUTH FROM BELOIT

Thirteen Year Old Boy Asks Policeman for Money to Buy Ticket to Brodhead—Held Until Father Arrives.

A thirteen year old boy who had run away from his home in Beloit was picked up by the police here yesterday afternoon. He came up on the two o'clock interurban car and a little later approached Patrolman John Brown with a request that he be given money to pay his fare to Brodhead where he was going to visit his uncle. From the conversation of the boy he suspected that he had left home without the consent of his parents and after Chief of Police Quinlan of Beloit was notified of the situation the boy was locked up. His father, who is a stone mason living just inside the north limits of the city, came up last night and took him home. He said that the boy was subject to fits at times. He talked a "blue streak" while with the officer and did not seem to be concerned over his situation. He thanked the police "a thousand times over" when he was released.

Defense in Dr. Hyde Trial Continues Quibbling Over Selections of Jurors.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 26.—With five temporary jurors seated in the box on the fourth day of the trial of Dr. Hyde, for the murder of Thomas H. Swale, another wrangle was commenced by the defense over the manner in which the names of the twelve men had been drawn.

EMPLOYEES PLAN TO REJECT CONTRACTS

Indications are That Rock Island System Workers Do Not Like Plans.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Chicago, Oct. 26.—All indications today pointed to the decision by the employees to reject the new contract offered by the railroad.

The vote on the contract has just been completed and a correct count cannot be concluded before next week, but President Kline of the Blacksmiths' Federation gave it as his opinion today that the membership of the five crafts would vote to reject it. It was said that the wage scale was not satisfactory.

LINK AND PIN. FIRST TO SEE THE TALKED OF COMET

Chicago & Northwestern. Employee at Chicago & Northwestern Roundhouse Has Seen Comet Several Times.

To "Daddy" Lee, the special policeman at the roundhouse of the Northwestern, falls the honors in regard to witnessing the comet, which is said to be traversing the heavens. He says claim to this distinction rightly, as his statements show that he sees every morning about four-thirty and as he is in an advantageous position to view the heavens, he states that the comet is plainly visible. He saw it this morning about four-thirty and it was in a position where it could be plainly seen by anyone had they been up and happened to look at the eastern heavens.

Some of the boys at the roundhouse claim that the comet that "Daddy" saw was the reflection from the star which he wears while on duty. They think that possibly Mr. Lee happened to have his coat hanging on a chair near the window and when he woke up he saw the star flashing forth in all its glory, and that he took it for granted that it was the comet. Of course "Daddy" discredits this story with a flashing description of the wanderer in the heavens and can prove that he saw the comet.

J. O. Wooding, better known to the employees of the road as "the white man's hope," has been given an opportunity today to demonstrate his ability along pugilistic lines. He has charge of a Type Z in the freight yards and it is reported that he has been showing it a few points of the game ever since the first round.

A large seventy-ton steam shovel was brought down from near Clyman and is on the repair track.

Fireman Palmer is a new man on the board. He will be on the Wisconsin division extra list.

"Ping Bodles" Wilkie stated this morning that if the Glants won today's game that he would immediately apply for a leave of absence and take the first train for New York and show McGraw and the rest of the bunch what it would mean to him if the Glants won the series. If the Glants win, no doubt the whole New York team will receive such reprimands from the German butcher that they will not dare to win the series.

GET MAN WANTED BY WHITEWATER POLICE

Robert Heldeman, Alleged Burglar, Arrested at Riverside Hotel Last Evening by Officer Peter Champion.

Robert Heldeman, wanted in White-water to answer to a charge of burglary, was arrested at the Riverside hotel early last evening by Police Officer Peter Champion. The police were informed of Heldeman's presence in the city by a brother-in-law of the man whose home was burglarized. The crime for which Heldeman must answer was committed several weeks ago. A sum of money amounting to $68.78, two suits of clothes, an overcoat, and a pair of hip rubber boots were stolen. It is said that Heldeman was identified as the thief by his attempt to pass some old coins. He has been in Iowa most of the time since the burglary. A Whitewater officer was expected to come for Heldeman today.

With Other Noted Speakers Will Appear On Program of Minnesota Educational Association Convention.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—From every direction and on every rail and interurban car throngs of teachers came to Minneapolis today to attend the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Minnesota Educational Association. The large attendance combines with an attractive program and a list of prominent speakers to give promise to the most notable convention in the history of the association.

The speakers' list is headed by William J. Bryan, who delivers the opening address at the Auditorium tonight. At the succeeding sessions of the convention, continuing through tomorrow and Saturday, the speakers will include Dean Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago, President George B. Vincent of the University of Minnesota, R. C. Hild of Iowa Agricultural College, Eugene B. Davenport, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, and Guy E. Maxwell of the Winona normal school.

DROPS DEAD TODAY AT ORFORD HOTEL

K. J. Mally, Traveling Salesman, Whose Home is at Milwaukee, Falls Dead at Dinner Table.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Orfordville, Oct. 26.—K. J. Mally, whose home is at 505 Pass street, Milwaukee, dropped dead at the hotel here today as he was sitting down to dinner. Mally was a traveling salesman for the Red Wing Milling company of Red Wing, Minn. Heart failure is attributed as the cause of the death.

Ocean Phenomenon.

In a recent plot chart of the British meteorological office many observations of the singular phenomenon called "white water" are collected. It is more frequently seen in the tropical parts of the Indian ocean than anywhere else, and it impresses some observers as a weird, ghastly and awe-inspiring. The ocean has a milky look and the ship seems to be passing through a kind of luminous fog, in which sea and sky appear joined and the sense of distance is lost. The phenomenon is believed to be due to some form of phosphorescence, but a satisfactory explanation of it is yet lacking.

The Horse to Drive.

It is a pure waste of time to attempt to make a trotting horse out of a Clydesdale. We never saw a Clydesdale in our life that could wobble around a half-mile track in less than 17 minutes, yet some get to town and back the same day with a team of Clydesdales weighing 4,000 pounds. The Clydesdale is not a society favorite, and never will be. He has the same relation to the speed ring as a deflated wheelbarrow, but when it comes to jerking a sponder over plowed ground, he is there 57 ways. As a driving horse, the Clydesdale is a melancholy joke.—H. L. Taun in Emporia Gazette.

Tennis an Old Man's Game.

The truth is that while young men, being supple and quick of eye, play tennis better as a rule than men past 30, it is a game in which experience counts as much as youth. The masters of it are likely to be older men because they are steadier under fire and oblivious of the gallery. They play solely for points, however the points can be made, and never yield to the temptation to be spectacular. Mr. Larned at 41 may look forward to holding his own on the courts for several years if he keeps himself at the top of condition.

Music as Against Police.

In nine months Boston has given a thousand individual music lessons to the children of the poor. Its teaching staff has grown from three to twenty-five, and there is every prospect that in another year the demand for lessons will exceed the supply.

All this is the work of the musical school settlement, whose backers believe pianos are better than policemen.

"I ain't a-going to play the piano with dirty hands any more," said one twelve-year-old of the slums. The study of music will work greater wonders than this in the moral and physical lives of the poor.

There is to be established a children's and wage earner's orchestra with free lectures on music and a chance for all to study.

The result in a generation will surprise the police authorities. The love of music will keep in the straight path many an otherwise uncertain foot.

WOULD PLAY LOCAL ASSOCIATION TEAM

Milton, Evansville and Freeport Y. M. C. A. Basketball Teams Would Play With Janesville.

Inquiries have been received by the secretary and physical director of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. from three different associations asking for dates of the Janesville basketball schedule. Evansville, Milton and Freeport would each play two games with the local "Y" team, one home and the other a return game, and it is very probable dates will be arranged in the near future.

Although nothing very definite has as yet been done toward organizing an association team here, there is plenty of material in the various gymnasium classes and a fast aggregation can easily be selected when the time comes.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Grace is a little three year old, quite careful in her table manners, especially in regard to keeping her lips closed while chewing her food. Mamma had a woman helping her who snatched, which accomplishment was very interesting to Grace and she watched her closely to learn the process. INTERURBAN TRAFFIC TIED UP BY WRECK

Car Jumps Track North of Rockford Last Night and All Cars Were Two Hours Late Into This City.

All interurban cars into this city were two hours late as the result of a wreck, caused by a car running off the track a short distance this side of Rockford. The car due here at ten o'clock did not arrive until midnight, and the one scheduled to arrive at 11:45 did not leave Janesville until after three o'clock this morning. The wreck was of such a nature as to give the repair men a great deal of trouble to replace it on the track. This morning's cars were again running on schedule time.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Chimney Fire Caused Alarms: Two runs were made by the fire department this afternoon between half past one and two o'clock at a chimney fire at the residence of A. W. Geesky. The first call was a still alarm which directed the company to 115 Clark street, but no blaze could be discovered in the vicinity. Shortly after the second alarm came in but this time on 1015 Clark street. No damage was done to the property.

More Fire Run Pictures: The last of the motion pictures of the Janesville fire department were taken yesterday afternoon. The subjects were the sounding of an alarm from one of the boxes, the firemen being roused out of bed and lifting up in response, and a run on Jackson street from Center street to Rock street. The apparatus out consisted of the chief's auto, the patrol, hose wagons one, two and three, and hook and ladder truck.

Takes Prisoners to Leavenworth: Chief Deputy U. S. Marshal W. H. Appleby, brother of Chief of Police Appleby, passed through here last evening with prisoners for the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas. He and in custody two Indians, convicted of violation of the liquor laws, and a Jew convicted of forgery.

Interurban Incident: The "Y" track at the interurban freight station will be planned so that teams can drive up to the same loading platform that the cars use.

Insane Man Picked Up: John Ecklund of Broadhead, thought to be insane, was arrested by Officer Pauling yesterday afternoon, who picked him up on Milwaukee street about three o'clock for committing an offense against public decency. He was taken to the police station to spend the night and was sent to Broadhead this morning.

Knight Templars: Janesville Commandery Knights Templars, No. 2, will meet at the Masonic temple tonight at 7:30.

Horse Slipped on Pavement: A junk dealer's wagon, which was heavily loaded with scrap iron being taken to the scales on Franklin street, proved too heavy a load for the single horse which was pulling it, and the horse was dragged down the hill for a considerable distance. The horse was quite badly bruised and the wagon smashed considerably.

JUMPS FROM FRYING PAN INTO THE FIRE

Mabel Griffin, Peevish Because Ejected From Dance Hall, Goes to Rockford for Lark and is Jailed.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Griffin, a woman well and unfavorably known to the police, got herself into another scrape last night, or rather two of them, the progression being from bad to worse. Indignant and peevish, because she was ejected from the Blumhagen dance hall, whose owners objected to her presence, she decided she would have her lark even if she had to leave town. Accordingly, she left on an interurban car for Rockford. It is not known whether she had company with her then, but late last night, she and a male companion were arrested and locked up in the police station there. The charge is alleged to be a false registration at a hotel.

NOVAK MAY RETURN TO ANSWER CHARGES

Reports to That Effect Circulated But Not Verified by Officers of Harassment.

That Frank Novak, the alleged harasser of the funds of the local labor union, will return to answer charges against him, is a report which has been circulated but is not verified by officials of the union. W. E. Bryan of Kansas City, general president of the International Brotherhood of Leather Workers on Horse Goods, who has been in the city examining the books of the local union, declared that he had received no authoritative information to that effect. The union accounts, he said, were in bad shape. Novak had sent in the percentage of assessments to the head office for the months of July and August, but there was no record of the percentage on the local union books. Practically no record exists of the union's finances for the last quarter. Novak left the city about the time the quarterly examination of the books was due.

The bonding company, which stands surety for Novak, has been informed of the situation by Mr. Bryan, but no indication has been received of what course they will pursue. Mr. Bryan left for Kansas City this afternoon.

In membership the club is up to its usual numbers for the first of the season and but few new additions may be made. The purpose of the club is to give young men a chance to meet and hold discussions on topics of live interest to people in this day and age.

These meetings are held by men who make special study of the subjects assigned to them and each one takes but one phase of the main topic. He is the benefit to be received from the discussion of these subjects the $2.50 dues for the year include the excellent support furnished by the ladies.

Any young man who is interested in this organization may become a member by paying the dues next Tuesday night at the meeting.

MANY CHANGES TODAY IN LOCAL MARKETS

Several changes are apparent in the markets today both in new things and in the prices which were good yesterday. Vegetable markets have made their appearance bringing the price of five cents a pound. This vegetable has a good trade in the city and housewives appreciate every opportunity to vary the vegetable program even though the change is slight.

Now potatoes have reached the bottom price and today five cents more is being paid for them by the people who buy at wholesale, though the retail price remains the same yet. The fact that potatoes brought only forty-five cents yesterday makes the consumer here and that they did not follow the advice of a Milwaukee paper some four weeks ago which said that potatoes were selling at from $1.25 to $1.50 and that it was a good time for housewives to lay in their winter supply. Those who bought many "Marphias" at that price are probably eating sweet potatoes now just out of sight.

Pineapples, though not very fine in quality compared to the summer fruit, are selling at from thirteen to fifteen cents each. The trade in peaches has dropped off gradually with the rise in price until at present there is very little call for them and very few peaches to supply the call. Watermelons have long since disappeared and only a few imported cantaloupes are evident. Skelton peaches are also almost dropped out, if not entirely. Taken as a whole the markets today seem to be one succession of increases in prices and decrease in summer fruits.

Hugo Liked Punctuation.
In one of Victor Hugo's letters to Daudet, he dwells on his passion for perfect punctuation. As an instance of this, Hugo mentions that he made his printers furnish him with 11 reviews of the proofs of "La Legende des Siecles," a last ten of which were required only in order that the commas might be put in the right places. Thomas Campbell was equally fastidious in this respect. He once walked six miles to his printers (and six miles back again) to have a comma changed into a semicolon.

Chicago.—The attack on the management of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, has brought out some of the most astounding evidence in the direct testimony of the children involved over heard in a civilized land. It is almost unbelievable that conditions as related by the children could exist.

William H. Dunn of Chicago, has under his direction, the investigation of the home and is directing his attacks largely against Henry W. Thornton, superintendent of the home, whom he alleged to be incompetent for the position. According to the testimony of the children they were placed in homes where there was filth and in some cases low moral standards.

Two of the principal witnesses are Josephine Needham and Jeannette Wolf. Both witnesses testify against a certain home to which many of the children were assigned.

Full barkeep is the man who looks upon the elder when it is sweet—and keeps on looking. The maddest man we ever saw was a neighbor who dropped into a corner saloon one evening for a nip and forgot to remove his cap, with the result that he hung around for an hour and didn't hear a soul say "drink." The occasional drinker is like an epidemic of the mumps—he is liable to break out at any time and make the interior of a happy home look like a landing yard. The man who sticks to sobriety and Wisconsin leaf tobacco will never have to get out a keyhole after 9:00 p. m. It is better to be a butt of ridicule than an everlasting sample of a distillery, and the young man who gets a strange hold on that is half way up the hill.

REMARK ONCE MADE BY MARSHALL FIELD

Communication Received From Reader in regard to City Ownership of Water Company.

In an anonymously signed communication addressed to the Gazette attention is called to a pertinent remark once made by the late Marshall Field regarding the city ownership of public utilities. The reader is allowed to make his own deductions from the statement, as to whether Janesville should own and operate the water-works plant. The article is as follows:

"Janesville Gazette, Janesville, Wis. Gentlemen:—Your editorial in Tuesday's issue of the Gazette—"But Little Interest"—relative to the city purchasing the Water Company, reminds me of an instance that occurred in Chicago a few years ago.

"The Democrats at that time were making a great talk on the municipal ownership of public utilities. Marshall Field was living at the time. Mr. Field, if you remember, was a life-long Democrat.

A reporter for one of the Chicago dailies recognized Mr. Field in the city hall one day and asked him what he thought of Chicago buying the city street-car company. Mr. Field said: "Young man, look at those passengers. Do you see how they are crowded? How many of them are choked? When they go to the cars, how many Chicago bachelors in the city hall might be in favor of outstretching her with a little more responsibility—but never the city railway companies."

"As to Mr. Field's business ability, you are very familiar—make your own deductions."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By H. L. RANN.

THE OCCASIONAL DRINKER.

The man who can "drink or leave it alone" usually compromises by inhaling three fingers in a wash tub every thirty minutes of a working day.

The lubricate homes and juiciness are filled with men who could leave booze alone for six months if they wanted to, but who never wanted to. It is more dangerous to flirt with an appetite for red liquor than to gambol about the footlocks about a morose mule. The only successful drinker is like an epidemic of the mumps—he is liable to break out at any time and make the interior of a happy home look like a landing yard. The man who sticks to sobriety and Wisconsin leaf tobacco will never have to get out a keyhole after 9:00 p. m. It is better to be a butt of ridicule than an everlasting sample of a distillery, and the young man who gets a strange hold on that is half way up the hill.

Very tart was Douglas Jerrold's retort to a would-be wit who, having fired off all his stale jokes with no effect, exclaimed: "Why, you never laugh when I say a good thing!" "Don't!" said Jerrold. "Only try me with one."

Men and Women Golfers.

Cecil Leitch, who has made a study of golfing for girls, says women should not expect to win the international championship. While the best women golfers may compare favorably with the average man player, yet they will be hopelessly outdistanced by the man experts, he asserts. There is no doubt in his mind that men are better equipped physically to carry off the championship in golf matches, and, while the game is just as much fun for the women as for the men, yet women cannot be victorious. He says that skill counts and that a girl may be just as skillful in handling golf clubs as a man, but when it comes to strength and hard hitting she is handicapped.

A SEVEN-FOOT DRUM MAJOR.

Man Who Swings the Baton for the Marine Band in the Tailout Ever.

The "biggest and tallest" man who ever held the position in the distinction which has been recorded the new drum major of the United States Marine band in Washington, Marshall D. Pryor. It is generally agreed, has something on all his predecessors in the matter of size, which, in addition to the fact that he is a good musician, is regarded as assuring him every success drum-majoring Uncle Sam's prize musical organization.

Appointed by General Hiddle, commandant of the Marine Corps, Mr. Pryor will succeed James L. Cullerton, who served as drum major of the Marine band from December, 1909, until the expiration of his term of enlistment, a short time ago. Mr. Cullerton declined to re-enlist because of his desire to go into business in Boston. The new official was drum major of the Naval Academy band at Annapolis for a number of years and is known to all the younger officers of the navy.

FOR GREATEST BATTLESHIP

United States Navy May Construct Fighting Machine Weighing 40,000 Tons.

Increase in the displacement of future American battleships will be one of the important questions naval officers will be called upon to determine in the near future. There are indications that an effort will be made to bring the displacement up to 35,000 tons and it is even intimated that the advantage of a 40,000-ton type will be strongly urged.

The cost of the proposed ship will be about $15,000,000, and it would be, of course, the most powerful fighting machine afloat. When it is considered that the Utah, which will soon be in commission, has a displacement of 21,825 tons, and carries ten 12-inch guns, the proposed ship at 35,000 tons, with ten 16-inch guns, as its main battery, shows the great departure from present construction.

INDUSTRIOUS AMERICAN HEN

She Turned Out $620,000,000 Worth of Eggs Last Year, Bless Her Heart.

To stimulate a movement for the proper care of the egg product and thereby reduce the $15,000,000 loss annually sustained by farmers and other egg producers, the department of agriculture has been conducting an investigation during the last year, the results of which have been announced. The loss is due to improper handling on the farm and at the country store.

Incidentally, it is pointed out that the products of the American hen aggregate a total value of $620,000,000 annually—a sum equal to the value of the hay crop, the wheat crop, the combined value of oats and potato crops, and nearly nine times the value of the tobacco crop of 1908.

GIRL ON THE ALASKA SURVEY

Miss Mary Carlisle Is First Unmarried Woman to Explore the Frozen Wilds.

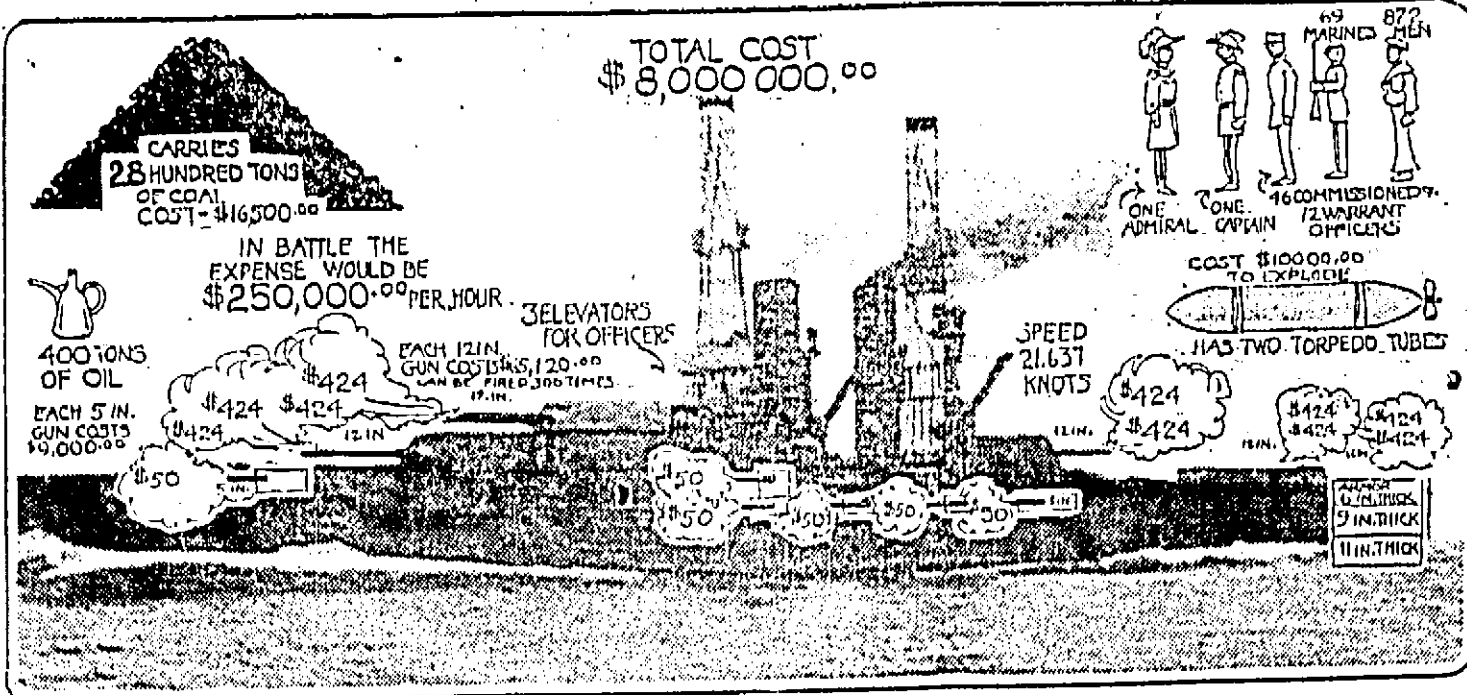

Miss Mary Carlisle, one of the most popular members of Washington's smart set, has the distinction of being the first unmarried woman to explore the frozen wilds of Northern Alaska. She is a daughter of the late Calderon Carlisle, a lawyer who had an international reputation.

Miss Carlisle recently joined the Coast and Geodetic survey party which is to mark the boundary between the British possession and Alaska on the extreme northern point. The party of American scientists left Seattle, Wash., recently on an American vessel and are now somewhere far up in Alaska.

Omaha, "Throws the Lariat."

Mayor Jas. C. Dahlman is of an interesting and impressive personality. Starting his career as a cowboy, he is at present Mayor of Omaha, and has the following record to his credit: Sheriff of Dawes County, Neb., three terms; Mayor of Chadron, two terms; Democratic Nat'l Committeeman, eight years; Mayor of Omaha, six years and in 1910 Candidate for Governor of Nebraska. Writing to Foley & Co., Chicago, he says: "I have taken Foley & Co. pills and they have given me a great deal of relief. I cheerfully recommend them."

Yours truly, (signed) James C. Dahlman. Underdog Drug Co.

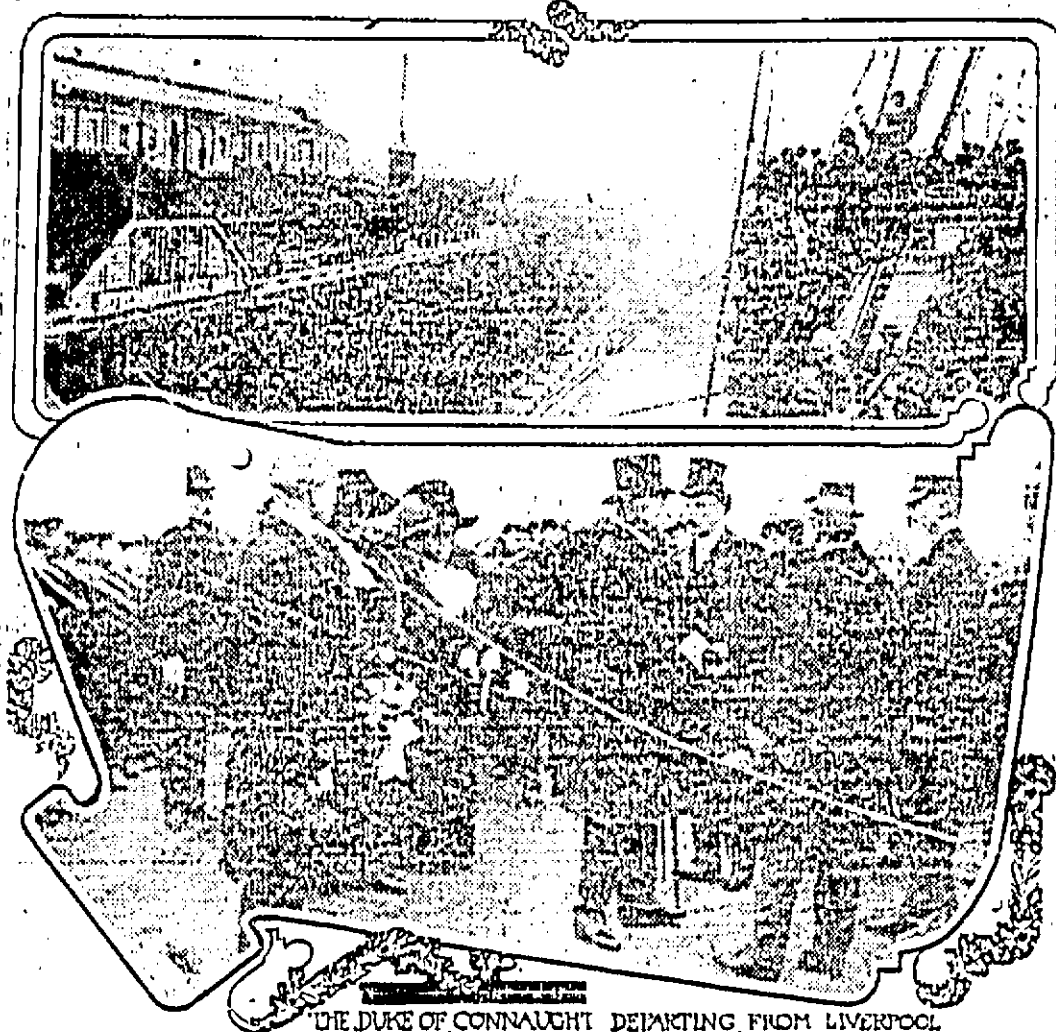

Battleship "Utah"—the largest battleship of the dreadnaught type, of the American Navy and specific details as to cost of firing and manning it.

New York City.—To the uninformed, the cost of a modern battleship is little appreciated. It is usually estimated at about $12,000,000 to $15,000,000. This does not, however, include the cost of completing the boat in its entirety and putting it in action. When this is figured out a sum exceeding $28,000,000 is the total. The fighting expense alone of one hour's battle foots up to $250,000. One single volley of the entire armament of the floating fortress with torpedoes costs up $25,000. The ship carries in its hold 2,800 tons of coal costing about $16,000. The battleship "Utah" has two torpedo boats and the cost of a single torpedo is $10,000.

Thus, the champion sea fighter of the world represents an investment on the part of Uncle Sam of over $28-million dollars. The life of one of the twelve inch guns is roughly calculated at 300 shots. The "Utah" is 521½ feet long; 88 feet, 2½ inches wide and has a displacement of 28,825 tons. She draws 28½ feet of water.

The "Utah" is the best armored ship in the world. The main armor jacket is 8 feet deep and 11 inches thick. Above this is a second eight foot deep belt nine inches thick, of the fourth fortress with torpedoes.

Plants That Are Poisonous.

Many harmless plants contain poison. Daffodil and narcissus plants are troubled with a skin disease known as "daffodil poisoning." Both originate from under the fingernails. They are caused by minute crystals in the juice of the stems. The bulbs of the white Roman hyacinth have similar unpleasant properties.

STOMACH TROUBLE VANISHES AFTER TAKING A LITTLE DIAPEPSIN

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Headache and other distress will go in Five Minutes.

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

"This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it."

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a box of Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of indigestible food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. "This will all go, and, besides there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors."

Pape's Diapepsin is certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

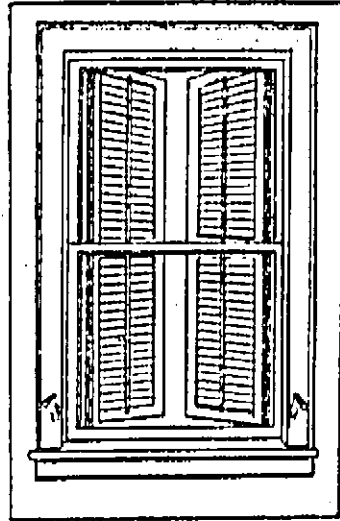

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

SHUTTER CLOSER

Shutters Can Be Opened or Closed With Window Down.

What suburbanite has not hung halfway out the window on a rainy night to close the shutters and said things under his breath? To save him this trouble and to save a Connecticut man has invented a device by means of which the shutters can be closed not only without leaning out the window, but without even opening the shutter and letting the rain and cold air into the room. Chains attached to the shutters run through holes bored in the window sash and are connected with handles on the inside. These chains run over cogged wheels so that when the handles are turned the shutters can either be closed or opened, according to the direction the chains are run, without opening the window. In inclement weather such an attachment will prove a welcome one and it also permits of bowing the shutters in any position.

Not a Dark.

"Then you don't have any dog-watch on this craft?" inquired the anxious passenger, according to a writer in Life. "No. This is a catboat."

Eternal Feminine.

Men say that women's friendships are not as staunch and true and lasting as men's because a woman is so ready to believe all that she hears against her best friend, while a man will only judge his friend by what he is to him, not by what the world says of him. Is this true? If so, it will remain so just as long as average characters see in man nothing but possible husbands, escorts and gift-givers.

Uplift in Russia.

Even the submerged Russians are lifting their heads to the better fruits of the industries of civilization. In fifteen years savings banks' holdings have risen from $25,000,000 to $650,000,000. Little by little, too, the Russian bonds, which had been sold abroad, are flowing back to the subjects of the czar.

Young Editors.

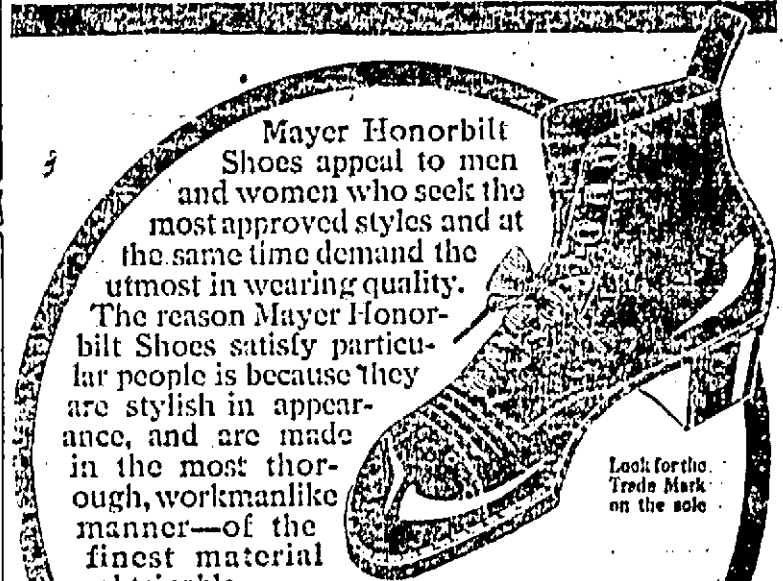

In the United States to-day are 15 juvenile magazines edited and managed by girls less than 14 years old, and about 90 weekly newspapers run by boys. All of them appear to be doing well. In most cases the editors sets all the type and does his own hustling for advertising. Some of the best weekly newspapers in the country to-day were first started by boys.

The Girl from His Town

by Marie Van Vorst
ILLUSTRATIONS by M.G. KETNER

Dan had neither title nor money, according to Lotty Lane, had he any money, and she could marry the prince; but Dan, as he walked so fast away, misery stamping at his heels as he went, stumbling through the woods, seemed glorious to Lotty Lane and the only one she wanted in the world. What if anything should happen to him really? What if he should really start out to do the town according to the fashion of his Anglo-Saxon brothers, but more desperately still? She took a card from the case in the corner of the car, scribbled a few words, told the man to bored with life, she charmed and amused him, and in order to have her with him always, to be master of her caprices, he was willing to make any sacrifice.

"Have you sent off that imbecile boy?" And at her look he stopped and shrugged. "You need a rest, my child," he murmured practically. "You're non-rational and very ill. I've wired to have the yacht at Cherbourg—it'll reach there by noon tomorrow."

She was standing listlessly by the table. A mass of letters sent by spegles; she had got out of the business with a fatal result, as far as the boy was concerned. She thought Dan would drift there probably as most Americans on their wild nights do for a part of the time, and she had come to see.

She wore a dress of coral pink, tightly fitting, high to her little chin, and seemed herself like a coral strand from neck to toe, clad in the color she affected, and which had become celebrated as the Lotty Lane pink. Her feathered hat hid her face, and she was completely shielded as she bent down drawing pictures with her bare finger on the cloth. After a little while she said to Pontotowsky without glancing at him:

"If you stare any longer like that, Frederigo, you'll break your eye-glass. You know how I hate it."

Used as he was to her sharpness, he nevertheless flushed and sat back and looked across the room, where, to their right, protected from them as they were from him by the great door, a young man sat alone. Whether or not he had come to Maxim's intending to join a congenial party, should he find one, or to choose for a companion some one of the women who, at the entrance of the tall blond boy, stirred and invited him with their raised eyebrows and their smiles, will not be known. Dan Blair was alone, pale as the pictures Lotty Lane had drawn on the cloth, and he, too, feasted his eyes on the lovely girl.

"By Jove!" said the Hungarian under his breath, and she eagerly asked: "What? Whom? Whom do you see?"

Turning his back sharply he evaded her question and she did not pursue the idea, and as a physical weakness overwhelmed her when Pontotowsky after a second said: "Come, cherie, for heaven's sake, let's go"—she mechanically rose and passed out.

Several young men supping together came over eagerly to speak to her and claim acquaintance with the lovely girl, and walked along out to the motor. There Lotty Lane discovered she had dropped her handkerchief, and sent the prince back for it.

As though he had been waiting for the reappearance of Pontotowsky, Dan Blair stood close to the little table which Lotty Lane had left, her handkerchief in his hand. As Pontotowsky came up Dan thrust the small trifle of sheer linen into his waistcoat pocket.

"I will trouble you for Miss Lane's handkerchief," said Pontotowsky, his eyes cold.

"You may," said Dan as quietly, his blue eyes like sparks from a star, "trouble me for hell!" And lifting from the table Pontotowsky's own half-empty glass of champagne, he brought the contents full in the Hungarian's face.

The wine dashed against Pontotowsky's lips and in his eyes. Blair laughed out loud, his hands in his pockets. The insult was low and noxious; the little glass shattered as it fell so easily that with the noise its contents were unheeded.

Pontotowsky wiped his face tranquilly and bowed.

"You shall hear from me after I have taken Miss Lane home."

"Till then," said the boy, "where you left the handkerchief, that's all."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Such Stuff as Dreams.

Dan was in his room at the hotel. He woke and then slept again. Nothing seemed strange to him—nothing seemed real. It was three o'clock in the morning, the rumble of Paris was dull; it did not disturb him, for he seemed without the body and to have grown giantlike, and to fill the room. He had a sense of suffocation and the need to break through the windows and to escape into ether.

The entrance of Pontotowsky's two friends was a part with the unreal naturalness. One was a Roumanian, the other a Frenchman—both spoke fluent English. Dan, his eyes fixed on the foreign faces, only half saw them; they blurred, their voices were small and far away. Finally he said:

"All right, all right, I can shoot well enough; this kind of thing isn't our custom, you know—I'd as soon kill him one way as another, as a matter of fact. No, I don't know a damned soul here. I There was a confused incomprehensible to Dan. "It's all one to me, gentlemen," he said. "I'd rather not drag in my friends. Fix it up to suit yourselves."

He wanted them to go—to be alone—to stretch his arms, to rid himself of the burden of sense and be free. And after they had left, he remained in his window till dawn. It came soon, midsummer dawn, a singularly tender morning in his heart. His mind worked with great rapidity. He had made his will in the States. He wished he could have left everything to Lotty Lane, but if, as Ruggles said, he was a pauper? Perhaps it wasn't a lie after all. Dan had written and telegraphed Ruggles asking for the solemn truth, and also telling him where he was and asking the older man to come over. If Ruggles proved he was poor, why, some of his burden was gone. His money had been a burden, he knew it now. He might have no use for money the next day.

What good could it do him in a life like this? He was to meet Pontotowsky at five o'clock in a place whose name he couldn't recall. He had seen it advertised, though; people went there for lunch.

The MUNSEY

For November

The Munsey for November carries a message of assurance and faith in the nation and its resources. It strikes a note of optimism that is inspiring and helpful.

James Lane Allen

AUTHOR OF "THE CHOIR INVISIBLE," "THE KENTUCKY CARDINAL," Etc.

contributes an article entitled "The National Spirit of Thanksgiving." It is a masterpiece of literary expression—the first important magazine contribution from the pen of this eminent novelist. It is richly illustrated by six full-page decorations in color by William de Leftwich-Dodge.

Princes of The Earth

By FORREST CRISSEY

There is a ranchman in California whose domain is twice the size of the kingdom of Belgium. Scores of his neighbors rule over broader acres than most of the feudal barons of the Old World. In America, we have "The Princes of the Earth," and in this article we learn who they are, how great is their wealth and how far-reaching their land-holdings.

Why The American Farmer Is Rich

By ISAAC F. MARCOSSON

The farmer occupies the strategic position in our economic life. So long as ninety million mouths demand food, the farmer, from his fertile acres, has his established income. This article is a study in optimism and a rebuke to the pessimist's cry of "wool!"

Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D.

(PASTOR OF PLYMOUTH CHURCH, BROOKLYN)

writes entertainingly about "The Beecher Family." The article is rich in anecdotes of Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, President Lincoln, Secretary Stanton and others in public life who came under the influence of this remarkable family.

Other Notable Features of The Munsey for November are the new serial story, "The Bandbox," by Louis Joseph Vance; the Financial Department, with its sane, helpful suggestions to investors; Stage Comment by Matthew White Jr., and the usual number of able, informative Editorials. There are also eight interesting short stories.

drive around the curve and meet the outlet of the path by which Dan had gone. When she saw him within reaching distance she sent the chauffeur across the woods to give Mr. Blair her scribbled word and console herself with the belief that Dan wouldn't "go to the dogs or throw himself in the river until he had seen her again."

CHAPTER XXVII.

At Maxim's.

At the Mourice, Miss Lane gave strict orders to admit only Mr. Blair to her apartments. She described him. No sooner had she drunk her cup of tea, which Higgins gave her, than she began to expect Dan.

Her dinner, without much appetite, she ate alone in her salon; saw a doctor and made him prescribe something for the cough that racked her chest; looked out to the warm, bright green of the Tuilleries feeding into the pallid loveliness of sunset, indifferent to everything in the world—except Dan Blair. She believed she would soon be indifferent to him, too; then everything would be done with. Now she wondered had he really gone—had he done what he threatened? Why didn't he come? At twelve o'clock that night, as she lay among the cushions of her sofa, dozing, the door of her parlor was pushed in. She sprang up with a cry of delight; but when Pontotowsky came up to her she exclaimed:

"Oh, you!" And the languor and boredom with which she said his name made the prince laugh shortly.

"Yes, I. Who did you think it was?" Cynically and rather cruelly he looked chal messenger from London after her, telegrams and cards lay there in a pile. Looking down at the lot, she murmured: "All right, I don't care."

He concealed his triumph, but before the look faded from his face she saw it and exclaimed sharply:

"Don't be crazy about it, you know. You'll have to pay high for me; you know what I mean."

He answered gallantly: "My dear child, I've told you that you would be the most charming princess in Hungary."

Once more she accepted indifferently: "All right, all right, I don't care tuppence—not tuppence!"—and she snapped her fingers; "but I like to see you pay, Frederigo. Take me to Maxim's."

He demurred, saying she was far too ill, but she turned from him to call Higgins, determined to go if she had to go alone, and said to him violently:

"Don't think I'll make you like any for you, Frederigo. I'll make you wretched; as wretched—" and she held out her fragile arms, and the sleeves fell back, leaving them bare—"as wretched as I am myself."

But she was lovely, and he said harshly: "Get yourself dressed. I'll go change and meet you at the lift."

She made him take a table in the corner, where she sat in the shadow on the sofa, overlooking the brilliant room. Maxim's was no new scene to either of them, no novelty. Pontotowsky scarcely glanced at the crowd, preferring to feast his eyes on his companion, whose indifference to him made his abstraction easy. She was his property. He would give her his title; she had demanded it from the first. The Hungarian was a little over-dressed, with his jeweled buttons, his large boutonniere, his faultless clothes, his single eye-glass through which he stared at Lotty Lane, whose delicate beauty was in fine play; her cheeks faintly pink; her starry eyes humbled with a dew whose luster is of the most precious quality. Her unshaken tears had nothing to do with Pontotowsky—they were for the boy. Her heart sickened, thinking where he might be; and more than that, it cried out for him. She wanted him. He would have been far better for Dan than anything he could find in this mad city, than anything to which in his despair he could go for consolation. She had kept her word, however, to that old man, Mr. Rug-down at Lotty Lane and admired the picture she made; small, exquisite, her blond head against the dark velvet of the lounge, her gray eyes intensified by the fatigue under them.

"Just got in from Carlsbad; came directly here. How-d'you? You look, you know," he scrutinized her through his single eye-glass—"most delightfully seely."

"Oh, I'm all right." She left the sofa, for she wanted to prevent his nearer approach. "Have you had any supper? I'll call Higgins."

"No, no, sit down, please, will you? I want to know why you sent to Carlsbad for me? Have you come to your senses?"

He was as mad about the beautiful creature as was his temporary comrade. Exhausted by excess and
